CITY MISSION GETS MANY CALLS FOR CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

School Children beginning to feel the cold of the Fall Mornings are asking Mission for Help—Appeal Is Made.

The Superintendent of the Maysville City Mission reports that calls are now coming in every day for children's warmer clothing. The cold mornings are hard on the clothing which the poor children of the city have worn throughout the summer and the call is so heavy that the Mission authorities have been compelled to make a special appeal to the good people of Maysville who are more fortunate to help their less fortunate neighbors.

Bed clothing is also badly needed but the greatest need just at this time is warm clothing for children.

People of Maysville are called upon to ransack the closets in their homes for clothing that their own children have cast off but that would keep the poor kiddies warm enough to go to school every day. Shoes are also in demand and all sizes of children's shoes will be gladly received.

If it is impossible to deliver the packages of clothing to the Mission Home, the authorities of the Mission will arrange to send for them if you will telephone the superintendent.

Look into this matter today and make it possible for some unfortunate child to keep in school this sort of weather.

BIBLE CLASS SURPRISES FAITHFUL SECRETARY.

There were many present and a most delightful evening was had. The members of the class as a token of their appreciation of Mrs. Wallace's many years as secretary of the class, presented her with a beautiful breast pin.

LEXINGTON TO ESTABLISH PIGGERY FOR REFUSE

City of Lexington to Adopt Hog Raising System for Disposal of Its Garbage.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 23.—A new modernly equipped incinerating plant, costing approximately $20,000, with probably a piggy attached, to take the place of the present city crematory which has become old and dilapidated through years of use and too small longer to render efficient service is the latest municipal improvement proposed for the city of Lexington, and an option has been closed by the city commissioners for the purchase of a 12-acre tract of land on the old Frankfort pike, adjoining the county jail farm, in site for the new garbage disposal plant. In connection with the project it is also the plan of the city fathers for the city to collect its own garbage after the expiration of the present arrangements, instead of farming out the job by contract, as has been the custom for a number of years.

A conference of Mayor Brindley and the city commissioners was held Monday morning, at which the plan was fully discussed, and at which it was decided to purchase from George Osborne and wife the tract of land comprising twelve acres on the north side of the old Frankfort pike, just west of the property of the Great Southern Refining Company and joining the city jail farm on the east, as a suitable site for the proposed plant.

Several days ago an option was secured on this tract, which, because of its proximity to the city jail farm and its general availability, is regarded by the city commissioners as a most desirable location for the purpose for which it is desired. Commissioner Wood G. Dunlay, who is custodian of all public property owned by the city, was directed to go ahead and close the option, which is taken to mean that the project which has been in contemplation for some time by Mayor Brindley and the city commissioners, is in "go."

Mr. and Mrs. Stinney Jacobs, of East Second street, are the proud parents of a fine baby girl, born Sunday.

SLAYER OF PERFECT LOVER IS ACQUITTED BY MISSOURI JURY

Peggy Neal Held To Be Not Guilty of Murder in Slaying of Kansas City Department Store Manager.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 23.—A jury in Criminal Court here acquitted Marie F. "Peggy" Neal, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, tonight of the murder of Frank W. Anderson, her "perfect lover," here last summer. The jury deliberated two hours.

Prisoners in the county jail adjoining the courtroom joined the applause incited by the announcement of the acquittal. The room was crowded despite the late hour.

The trial started this morning. Few witnesses were examined and the testimony was short.

When questioned concerning the fatal shooting, which occurred on June 3 in a hotel room where Mrs. Neal asserted Anderson had lured her by promises of marriage, though he was already married, Mrs. Neal wept with her face in her hands.

"I came here from Springfield, Ill., to marry Warren," she testified. "He told me that he could not marry me, so I shot him."

Mrs. Neal slew the man she loved when she realized that she was about to lose him, Anthony Nugent, an assistant County Prosecutor, said in his closing argument. He held she received inspiration for her crime from a book named "Thulya, Maid of Mars," which was found in her room after she had fired the fatal shot and attempted to take her own life.

The defense contended that Mrs. Neal was the victim of a "professional love pirate" and held that she was temporarily insane.

As Judge Ralph S. Latshaw rend the verdict Mrs. Neal leaped to her feet, exuding animation for the first time during the trial. She turned to the jurymen, thanking them.

"Now I am going to stay in Kansas City," she exclaimed, "and make good. I'm going to send for my little boys in Terre Haute and make them a good home."

Mrs. Neal, 32 years old, a divorcee, shot Anderson as he lay on a bed in the room which they occupied together. She then turned the revolver upon herself, sending a bullet into her breast.

Anderson was the manager of a department store here. His wife, an invalid, lived at Camden, N. J.

"REMEMBRANCE" IS A ONE-MAN PICTURE

Rupert Hughes Proves Such a Production is an Outstanding Success.

One of the most interesting figures in the motion picture world is Rupert Hughes. He has proved that the "one man" picture not only is a possibility but a distinct outstanding success. He also has shown that the public doesn't have to be captivated by vampires, or ogled with eternal triangles to put the seal of approval on a screen drama.

When Mr. Hughes first went to the Goldwyn studio on the west coast and began a practical first hand study of the screen it generally was taken for granted that his would be the way of other authors who have made the same experiment. Then came word that he was writing his own continuities, or the working script from which the pictures are photographed. Then he assisted in direction and wrote his own titles. Now in his latest pictures, including "Remembrance," a Goldwyn production, coming to the Washington theater beginning Thursday, he is responsible for the entire production—the original story, the continuity, the direction, the cutting and the titling.

As in his "The Old Nest," Mr. Hughes in "Remembrance" has translated a typical American family problem to the screen. In the first picture he bulled on mother love. The father is the central figure in his later efforts.

There is no doubt that whatever else may be said, a picture by Rupert Hughes is always distinctly and emphatically Hughes. It bears the imprint of his individuality as plainly as do his novels and short stories. In this respect, if no other, it might be safe to say that Hughes is unique. There is no one like him in motion pictures.

TOBACCO GROWERS OF WHOLE NATION POOL STRENGTH

Tobacco Producers Co-operative Associations Organize at Meeting Held Monday in City of Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 24.—Co-operative associations of tobacco growers throughout the United States pooled their strength and resources for use to the best interest of the members of the respective organizations at a meeting here Monday of representatives of the growers' associations from every producing section of the nation. A temporary organization was formed today and it was expected that from this step a permanent body would be evolved.

The deceased was born in Caldwell county, Missouri, March 4, 1862, but he had spent the greater part of his life at Mayslick, this county. He was a printer by trade and followed his trade for many years, for the past few years, however, he was engaged in business in Maysville.

Despite the fact that Mr. Scott was deaf and dumb from birth, he was well educated and a splendid business man. The funeral will be held at the Mayslick cemetery Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

IF THE FARMER SHOULD STRIKE

Governor Miller of New York thinks that if the farmers ever "unionize and practice the methods of the unions, it will be a sorry day for the country."

What the governor suggests is surely not a pleasant prospect. Suppose, for instance, that the producers of wheat, corn, potatoes and cotton and other essentials of life were to conclude that because they were not getting a just price for their products, they would sit down and produce nothing for a year.

Or suppose, that rebelling against the necessity of working long hours in the fields in the busy season, the farmers should determine not to work at all, and should agree to live in idleness on common funds accumulated during better years.

The nation would presently face a famine. A mighty howl would go up from the cities against the treachery of the farmers. To interfere with the production of the essentials of life would quickly be viewed as a crime. Having control of the land, the implements and the necessary knowledge and skill for producing the necessities of life, to refuse to use them would be called indirect murder.

Yet capital and labor in the urban districts commit the same character of offense when they institute their lockouts and strikes and interfere with or cut off production of other essentials of life, and insist that they have a legal and moral right to resort to such means, with the view of forcing their own views in controversies with adversaries.

If the farmer talks of a strike, involving the depletion of the nation's food supply, it appears as a heinous offense. If industrial workers strike and cut off a necessity, it is the vindication of a great American right; or if an industry falls out with its employees and shuts down, it is only the exercise of the rights guaranteed to capital and property.

If a strike by the farmers appears such a heinous offense to the workers in the cities dependent upon them for food, why can they not see the same degree of moral turpitude in their action against the public at large, when they attempt to squeeze the public into an aquiescence into their demands.

Fortunately, the farmers have not yet got around to the strike method. They are organizing to promote cheaper and better distribution, and seeking through co-operation to avoid overproduction and consequent unprofitable prices, but the farmers never yet have endorsed the idea of sitting down and doing nothing in an effort to force their views of crop values on the country.

To the farmer's credit so far, let it be said, he has never proposed to make the world go hungry or naked, in order to pile up profits for himself. The most that he has demanded has been a fair division of the products of his labor to which he is surely entitled—Houston Post.

WHY SHAKE THE DONKEY?

These are days of change and restlessness and change. Even the most cherished traditions do not seem safe before the restless march of progress.

Of almost revolutionary character, it will strike many citizens, is the announced determination of Missouri Democrats to abolish the donkey as the sign and symbol of their party, substituting the goddess of liberty.

It is declared that the donkey is an undignified beast, while the goddess, whatever jibes may have been hurled at her since the advent of the Volstead act, is the embodiment of austere stateliness.

That may be, but it cannot be denied that the donkey stands for many things which the goddess of liberty cannot be expected to represent and that these things have always been looked upon as characteristic of the Democratic party.

For example, the donkey stands for firmness in opposition. Anybody who has ever attempted to force or enjoin one of these interesting specimens of animated nature to do anything it didn't want to do will testify as to the firmness of the opposition it can put up.

The donkey is notoriously proficient in the gentle art of kicking. And often, it has been observed, it kicks without good reason and when it would be much more sensible not to kick at all. Those who have observed the evolutions of Democratic congressional spokesmen during the recent session will at once be struck by the singular appropriateness of the symbol.

The donkey is a stern and uncompromising advocate of liberty and in this regard typifies the desire for freedom of action even more definitely than does the pictured goddess, the latter being static as opposed to the dynamic energy of the donkey in its desire for self-expression.

On the whole it may be suggested to the Missouri Democrats that they would better let their symbol remain as it is. If for no other reason, because the people of the United States, who have been reared in the belief that any picture of a donkey means a Democratic political item somewhere, will never consent to regard anything else as symbolic of that organization.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

SANS TEETH, SANS EYES, SANS TASTE, SANS EVERYTHING

"The league still lives" asserts a Democratic contemporary, with an air of having said something to the discredit of the Republican party. The Republican party has done nothing to hinder it from living and working as best it can. We have nothing but the best of wishes for its success. But we declined to become a party to a compact that bound us to make the "supreme sacrifice" of national sovereignty. The Democratic party wanted to make the United States a subject of the league, to bear its burdens. The Republican party saved the United States from the catastrophe. The league just barely lives, having no bottomless treasury upon which to draw and having no members that are disposed to make it a vital agency in world affairs. The league was designed as a means of making the United States furnish the men and money to preserve peace and reconstruct Europe. We choose to let Europe take the first steps in reconstruction and manifest some disposition to encourage peace. We have never been unwilling to help, but we always insist upon being the judges as to how and when and where we shall do the helping.

COMMENT

Local Presbyterians who contributed $16,000 to the state-wide educational fund are to be congratulated. It is a liberal contribution to a most noble and worthy cause.

The first copy of the new Augusta Independent has reached our desk. It is a very newsy journal, attractive in make-up, well printed and editorially bright and snappy. We welcome the lusty youngster.

In November, 1923, the people of Maysville will again be called upon to select a City Council. It's none too soon to begin thinking about the election of a City Council of the highest possible type. The people of Maysville should think more and longer on the selection of councilmen.

Despite their poor showing in the last half of the season, the Maysville Cardinals came back in the post season series and captured the Bluegrass League pennant for Maysville. This pennant will proudly float over the Maysville hall park for a year and if the Bluegrass League is reorganized in 1923, watch us keep the flag there for another year.

R. J. Reynolds' purchase of a large quantity of tobacco from the pool has been of great benefit to the working men of Maysville as a large amount of this tobacco is being rehandled and stored in this city thereby giving employment to many people. The local branch of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company is one of the city's most valuable industries.

The second number of the High School Lyceum course is to be given on Thursday evening. The course this season is of a very high type and such elevating entertainment should have the support of the people of Maysville. If you have not purchased your season ticket yet, do it now and don't miss another number. It will do you good.

Those women who have been breaking for the hussiness district as soon as they arose and who have been standing in line for an hour and a half to get a ten cent bargain will have time to get friend busbuds breakfast this week.

In the death of Dr. Lyman Abbott, America has lost one of its most forecasters and writers and the periodical press will be less interesting until one shall arise to take his place.

Now that Maysville has won the pennant in the Bluegrass League and Harvard has beat Centre at football, we can all settle down to work again for a few days or until something else grabs our interest.

QUEER FEELINGS AT MIDDLE AGE

Women Should Know How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps at This Trying Period

Sheboygan, Wisconsin.—"I was run down, tired and nervous. I could not even do my own housework, could not sleep at night and all kinds of queer thoughts would come to me. Finally I gave up going to the doctor and a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After the first bottle I could sleep better and I have kept on improving ever since. I have taken seven bottles now and am so happy that I am all over these bad feelings." —Mrs. B. LANSER, 1639 N. 3rd St., Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

GOOD EQUIPMENT TO HELP FARMERS IN SHORT COURSE.

of livestock problems is made possible by the many famous breeding establishments to be found within a short distance of Lexington.

Lexington, Ky. — Farm men and boys of the state who attend the annual winter short course in agriculture which opens November 1 at the College of Agriculture will have the advantage of equipment that should make it possible for them to get many pointers on better farming, according to Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College. A large farm, herds of purebred livestock, flocks of purebred poultry and the results from soil experiment fields in different parts of the state all will be put to use in showing those who attend the short course how the farm back bone can be made a little better.

Work in connection with soils, the raising of crops, orcharding, beef cattle, hogs, sheep, dairy cattle and poultry is being carried out on the college farm of 223 acres which is near the university campus. On this farm also are beef cattle barns, a dairy barn, sheep barn, poultry houses, a hog cholera serum plant, a laboratory and hospital for the study of animal diseases, a large livestock judging pavilion, a farm machinery and gas engine laboratory and a green house.

In addition to this farm, the college operates eight soil and crop experiment fields on different soil areas of the state. The results that have been obtained on these fields in raising crop yields through the use of different fertilizers will be studied and their relation to the soils of the various regions represented by the students explained.

The college also owns herds of purebred dairy and beef cattle as well as purebred bogs, sheep and Percheron mares. A large, well equipped poultry plant in which many different breeds of poultry are handled also is a part of the farm equipment. Further study is required.

A THOROUGH TEST

One To Convince the Most Skeptical Mayville Reader.

The test of time is the test that counts. Donn's Kidney Pills have made their reputation by effective action. The following case is typical. Mayville residents should be convinced.

The testimony is confirmed — the proof complete. Testimony like this cannot be ignored.

George H. King, prop. grocery store, 615 East Second street, Mayville, says: "I have used Donn's Kidney Pills off and on for several years and have been greatly benefited by them. At times my kidneys got out of order and the secretions passed irregularly. I suffered with a severe aching through the small of my back. When I had one of these attacks I used Donn's Kidney Pills and they never failed to cure the complaint." (Statement given November 15, 1916).

PERMANENT RELIEF.

On November 22, 1920, Mr. King added: "The cure I spoke about in my former statement has proven permanent. I haven't had the slightest sign of kidney trouble since using Donn's Kidney Pills."

THURSDAY Opera House

REMEMBRANCE

FRIDAY at Gem

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York.—With the announcement of the opening of the opera each year I renew my vow to attend oftener and write more about it. When I asked Ernest Almire if he would go with me this season, he replied that he never felt satisfied when he came away because he divided his time between trying to follow the superb orchestra and the marvelous voices, and got neither. There is something in that. The whole effect is overwhelming. With the orchestra, the ballet, the new sensations in singers, the old favorites, the advanced scenic effect, the audience, it is both an earful and an eyeful. Mr. Gatti-Casazza announces the opening for November 13th, with Jeritza in "Tosca." "The Rose Cavalier" is to be revived in the opening week and Chaplin is to sing as well. Important new artists are Ina Bourkay, Edward Johnson, Edmund Burke and Armand Tokatyan. The last is an Armenian tenor. The plans call for several new presentations.

WHY YOU SHOULD SEE THIS GREAT PICTURE

It is Rupert Hughes' greatest work. It is better than that powerful heart drama "The Old Nest." It is crowded with laughter. It is rich with dramatic moments that touch the heart.

It is clean, wholesome, entertaining.

It is a picture that everyone will take to their hearts. Mother, Father and the children.

And the stranger in town today, the person living away from family will want to see every thrilling moment of it.

It has a wonderful, talented, lovable cast of players.

It is a picture that will make you happy.

"Remembrance." If you love a strong, courageous fight against odds, if you like to see a good man win out in the end, if you believe that family affections are worth battling for, then come to see "Remembrance."

"Pop's" best friends were the granchildren who hadn't yet learned of the social world.

"Pop" planted a tree years ago for mother and now he was joyful to see another romance flower in there.

Every one asks money depression here. There is a nice story going around told by Arthur Brisbane. It is about a young man in Vienna who inherited one million kronen during the war on the death of his father. He was considered very rich at that time but decided to be frugal and save his money. He therefore put it out at interest and lived on the interest, leaving the bulk of the fortune to his heirs. The fortune of this very thrifty person has shrunk to the value of $15 and his annual income is 50 cents. Brisbane says that it is a true story. Now it seems to me that you might call that financial depression.

Two of my favorite stage artists are to be case in my favorite play by my favorite author. Margalo Gillmore, late of "He Who Gets Slapped," and Leslie Howard, late of "The Serpent's Tooth," are to appear in A. A. Milne's "The Romantic Age." I think that isn't a wholesome promise I am going to give up the theater. There will be no troubles for Mr. Thomas to untangle in that combination.

The newest kind of "bootlegging" is in the feather industry. The present tariff act bans paradise feathers, and trading in that commodity must therefore be secret and illegal! Whatever comes in must be smuggled and secretly traded when put out. The plumes are no longer in the windows. But there are enough in town, and here and there women are beginning to whisper that they know where some may be had. Still I don't suppose the taste for paradise is so general as to rival the original form of bootlegging.

Does your cook sing? Do you make that talent a qualification for her employment? I quote an ad recently seen here. "Wanted a good pastry cook with full resonant voice; contracts only need apply." I suppose the next step will be to have them dance in with the food. Our meals, which are already too much a serious performance of sustaining life, will become artistic moments in our lives to be looked forward to three times a day.

FAYETTE BOY STARTS UNCLE IN PUREBRED HOG BUSINESS.

Lexington, Ky.—A good example of how junior agricultural club work gets adult farmers, as well as country boys, interested in purebred livestock and better methods of doing things on the farm is to be found in the experiences of Clifton Ware, an 11-year-old Fayette county boy, who is one of the charter members of a pig club organized in the spring of 1921 by County Agent W. R. Gabbert and the extension division of the College of Agriculture. The pig bought for $20 from Tom Powers, Crittenden, by Clifton at the time he became a member of the club already has returned him $70 and in addition he has the original gilt, four boars and one sow. His uncle, Lester Danahay, with whom he lives, who is now an enthusiastic and successful purebred hog raiser says, "If it hadn't been for Clifton, I never would have thought of being a Poland China breeder."

The business of raising purebred pigs began in earnest for young Ware this last spring when his pig farrowed nine little ones. Three of the girls from the litter were sold to other club members for $15 each while one of the board was sold for $25 to head a Poland China herd near Jackson, Ga. With the mother sow and four boars and one gilt from her first little rearing, Clifton added another gilt costing $15 to his herd and at the present time has the foundation for a good start in the purebred hog business. That he already is meeting with success in his work is shown by the fact that he has won cash prizes in his pigs for the last two seasons at the Bluegrass Fair.

Clifton's uncle, Mr. Darnaby, became so interested in the work of his nephew that he decided to enter the Poland China business. Soon after Clifton made his start, Mr. Darnaby purchased five pigs and at the present time has a herd of 51 hogs after selling eleven. His experiences so far with purebreds have made him enthusiastic about the way they respond to good feed and care by putting on weight. Practically all the hogs in his herd carry the blood of prominent Poland China sires and dams.

Alex Ehrler, May Die of Wounds.

Eddyville, Ky., Oct. 23. — Monte ("Tex") Walters, bandit, who was sent to the penitentiary here August 17, to serve life sentence on the charge of murdering Alex Ehrler, dairyman of Louisville, lies at the point of death in the prison hospital from the effects of a wound received this morning as he attempted to escape over the prison wall.

Two gunners, "Hi" Baugh, of Shellyville and Preston Thompson of Tompkinsville, seeing him climbing a ladder, opened fire, two shots going through the body, entering the chest and piercing each lung. Physicians entertain little hope for his recovery.

Waiters' wife, who was here yesterday, was at the bedside of her dying husband today.

The attempt to escape was made at 8 o'clock this morning. The prisoner had tied together the pieces of a broken ladder and was about half way to the wall when Baugh fired a warning shot. Not heeding this, he continued to climb, and the two guards let loose a stream of lead. Waiters recited and fell to the ground.

He has been unconscious since noon. He has not made a confession to the shooting of Ehrler and has not referred in any way to his past history.

C. & O. PUTS EMBARGO
ON COAL SHIPMENTS.

An embargo on coal shipments over the Chesapeake & Ohio to points west of Ashland, Ky., became effective Monday. Neither coal originating on its own lines nor that from connecting lines, when destined to stations west of Ashland, will be received.

Officials of the C. & O. said that the embargo resulted from the congestion caused by the inability of other roads to accept westbound freight at Cincinnati, Toledo and other terminals, from the C. & O. They expect the order to be modified or lifted by the middle of the week. The embargo does not effect coal at present in transit.
